

For Thin, Poor Blood

You can trust a medicine tested 60 years! Sixty years of experience, think of that! Experience with Ayer's Sarsaparilla; the original Sarsaparilla; the Sarsaparilla the doctors endorse for thin blood, weak nerves, general debility.

But even this great old medicine cannot do the best work if the liver is inactive and the bowels constipated. For the best possible results, you should take laxative doses of Ayer's Pills while taking the Sarsaparilla.

We hear of the oil trust, the lumber trust, the railroad trust, and every other kind of trust, but it is hard to get a trust in the Lord which will stand all temptations.

One large coal company in the Pittsburgh, Pa., district says the railroads are 30 per cent. short in coal needed. That their output has been curtailed 30 per cent. and prevented opening new mines altogether.

Pittsburg wants $50,000,000 expended in deepening the Ohio river, giving its nine feet of water the entire year from Pittsburgh to the Mississippi river. The President's trip down the great fathers of water in the very near future will give a great impetus to the water question. It is no doubt beyond the ability of the railroads to handle the entire commerce of the country, with their present trackage and equipments. The commerce is increasing more rapidly than the roads are increasing trackage and accumulating rolling stock to handle the commerce. Some line of business with have to suffer. The only sure relief for the railroads and commerce is in making every stream, that justifies it, navigable. Otherwise the road will have to double track. Would it not be better to have the national government improve the waterways, than for the roads to incur the heavy expense of virtually duplicating their roads—for more trackage require more rolling stock?

Throughout the commercial world more attention is now being paid to making streams navigable than ever before, perhaps in the history of the world. It is said the first suggestion of the Cape Cod canal was made in 1697. On the 20th of August, 1907, dirt was broken—210 years afterwards. Now the canal is going to be built. A canal connecting the Atlantic and Pacific has been discussed for years. Nothing definite done until President Roosevelt acted. Now it will be completed. So it goes, nature must be depended on after all, to protect and take care of man's interest. Man will not do it. It has been written: "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

Great Thinker and Orator.

In the absence of stenographic notes, it is impossible to do justice to Senator Culberson's speech. He spoke about two hours and his every word was received with rapt attention. A full report of his masterly and beautiful address would fill one side of a newspaper and would read like a classic. It was replete with historical research, was a powerful argument, full of poetry and pathos, sparkling with humor and redolent with rich reminiscences. His tribute to private soldier and the woman of the South was an immortal in literary construction and breathed the loftiest and holiest sentiments that dwell in human hearts and find expression in human speech. It was undoubtedly the greatest speech delivered in Greenville and the veterans and others who heard it, and endorsed it all, will long remember the occasion and the burning and beautiful words of this great thinker and orator.—Greenville Herald.

STATE'S IRON BUSINESS.

Rusk, Tex., Aug. 30.—The Sam Lanham furnace is doing splendidly just now, and the News correspondent is reliably informed that the net profits from the iron business of the State is averaging $12,000 per month, and this continually improving, and will probably reach $150,000 per annum.—Dallas News.

It has not been very long since the iron industry of the State was showing a loss. This, it was claimed, was caused by the fuel then being used—charcoal. While charcoal may cost more than coke, yet the iron always commands several dollars a ton more than the same grade of coke iron. This, however, makes no difference, the State has wisely selected coke as its fuel. While that in itself was wise, yet the putting in a pipe factory was the wisest of the two. It is the manufactory which always gets the real cream out of the iron business. Discontinue the operation of the plant at Rusk, the profits, while they will be good, will not be so large without it. While the pipe factory is a paying proposition, yet the cotton tie plant is equally as good, if not better, a paying proposition, and the product of the cotton tie plant has a sure market. Nothing but an absolute failure of the cotton crop would cause the demand to cease or fall off. A panic would stop the use of pipes, no panic can stop the demand for the cotton tie. Stagnation in business will cause the demand for piping to fall off, but not so with the cotton tie. One has only to think over the proposition intelligently and no other conclusion can be reached other than that the manufactory of cotton tie is the surest and safest proposition in which any one can engage in the iron business.

The demand is at home. The iron fields of Texas is in the center of at least half of the cotton raised in the South. Think what a market it has—how easily reached. Every bale of cotton west of the Mississippi river should be wrapped with Texas made ties. Why send the pig to other factories? Why not Texas keep the real cream at home. In no iron proposition is the profit surer, nor the market more certain and easier supplied.

Communicated.

The last day of summer Mrs. A. J. Davis boarded the canon ball (thunderbolt) for Dallas and Oak Cliff to visit her daughter, Mrs. B. Lumbkins and grandchildren, Mabel and Buster Brown. She was accompanied by Bro. Hamblin, preacher in charge of Kellyville circuit. We were pleased to leave our first born and loving daughter in charge of so grand an escort. Bro Hamblin was enroute for Jones county to spend his layoff with loved ones.

During her visit Mrs. Davis, whom we have called Gutsa ever since May 3rd, 1893, will stand on Oak Cliff's rugged heights and view the Trinity ore, whose bottom is as dry as dust, no water from shore to shore. While Indian tradition has it that in the distant past for seven long years there was no water enough in the Trinity at Dallas for a two by four snapping turtle to subside in, and yet they boast of steamboat navigation—in a horn. Gutsa the boat has wings like unto an albatross and when the water fails it spreads its pinions and sails into port, to salute Uncle Tom and his extra section. Why, ye Stonewall the Trinity dry should long anterior to the time when Uncle Sam and his Southern boys had that scrap. This now brings us nearer home. Yes, to the water of Abanah and Pharpar, alias Sals Lake and the Oryss river, when with a small outlay, comparatively, we could sport large side-wheelers as in the past, at least two thirds of every year, and now Uncle Tom and Bro. Roosevelt "speaks" another twist at the public test and counts on our vote, they had better come up to the help of the people who have facilities, that if boosted a little would result in innumerable millions to the great State of Texas—the empire State of all States, and don't forget it when we say a horse is 18 feet high. We never take back water.

A Old Marion County Citizen.

Shook's Chapel, Tex., Aug. 26.—The grim reaper Death came once more in our community and claimed as his own Uncle Jeff Gafford. He was sick but a few days, and passed from death into eternal life with little suffering. Early Sunday morning the news was sent far and near to his many friends and relatives and during all that day they came from many homes to pay their last tribute of respect to this good man. His children wept, but why should they? True in a sacred corner of his room there is a vacant chair. Your father was old, and would it not be selfish to wish one so aged as he endure longer suffering when a place of rest prepared where pain cannot come? The funeral services were conducted at his late home by the Masons. Frank and Fred Gafford, Uncle Joe and Sam Gafford were at the burial yesterday.

The above is taken from the Sulphur Springs Gazette of Aug. 30, Mr. Jeff Gafford was for many years a citizen of Marion county before he moved to Hopkins county.

FROM DENVER.

To the Editor of the IMPLECTATE:

Denver, Aug. 28.—Denver reminds me of a pretty girl before a mirror admiring herself. While she is smiling and making eyes at her own dimples, we, too, are being charmed by her loveliness and her naivete. This fair city of two hundred thousand people calls herself "Denver, the beautiful," and we are ready to clap our hands in approval.

She sits one mile above sea level, and here summer climate has attained perfection. It is never warm, yet it is not cold enough to wear overcoats as it is sometimes in Manitou. It seldom rains, but is never dusty. There is about the air a purity and freshness which makes us wish it always to remain just as it is. We have spent the greater part of the month of August here, and we have enjoyed every moment.

The houses are all of brick and stone, with lawns like velvet, and lovely flowers. Between the streets and sidewalks are strips of well mowed grass with trees in the middle, and sometimes a bed of flowers also is in these street lawns. There are 72 miles of paved streets, and the street cleaners are busy all the time washing them and sweeping them with wagons which remind one of immense carpet sweepers.

Some of the parks are dreams of beauty, as well as great blessings to tired humanity. City park is the largest, and in the afternoon thousands of people are there, men, women and children, making themselves comfortable, promenading the gravel walks, sitting on the many hundred benches, rowing on the lakes, lying on the grass, romping, eating, swinging. The shade is dense, and the flower beds marvels of art. There are free concerts, moving pictures, horse races, a zoo, and at night theatrical performances—all free, and not even the entrance is free. It is all flowers and fakes but the most beautiful flowers and the most bewitching fakes you ever saw.

Elitch's gardens is most popular. This looks like a vision of wonderland, but it belongs to a private company, and not even the entrance is free. It is all flowers and fakes but the most beautiful flowers and the most bewitching fakes you ever saw.

The capital is one of the handsomest in the union, but falls far short of ours in Austin. It is massive and imposing, quite fit to the queen of a state rich in gold, silver and climate. The basement is a free museum where every county has contributed its exhibit of pictures, minerals, stuffed animals, fruit, etc. Of these the most interesting to me was the ruins from the old Cliff Dwellers, with its mummies, and the G. A. R. room with its relics. In the latter we saw Kit Carson's gun with the ticks he had put in it to show how many Indians he had killed. An old Indian said Gen. Lee had carried through the war, was valued at fifteen hundred dollars. Besides thousands of interesting relics and flags, were specimens of ammunition which showed us what shrapnel is, and canister, etc. From the dome of this granite capital we looked down on the west, the glorious mountains rose in great peaks, many of which are taller than Pike, and sparkling with eternal snow.

We visited the mint and saw men make money faster than they could spend it. They would exchange new money for old, but that was all we could get from those great machines disgorging so much. We thought of the suffering and the worry those little pieces of mineral had power to relieve if rightly used.

In Denver Mrs. Bland and her daughter, Walter, joined us, and also Mr. and Mrs. Haggard and Miss Addie Reese. Dr. Dake, Mr. Ward's niece, lives here and came to see us—all together adding much to the pleasure of our stay.

Denver is a resort for consumptives, and there are numerous hospitals for them both in and out of the city.

S. T. Taylor.

Bridge Collapsed.

A section of the new bridge across the St. Lawrence river five miles below Quebec, Can., collapsed August 30, carrying scores of workers and mechanism into the water. A careful estimate places the loss of life at eighty-four.

The bridge was about a mile and a half in length, and half off from the south shore to midstream crumbled up and dropped in the water. Ninety men were at work on this section of the structure and the whistle had just blown at 5:30 for the men to quit work for the day, when it heard a grinding sound from the bridge mid-stream. The men turned to see what had happened and an instant later the cry went up "the bridge is falling."

Charles Blalock, living four miles south of Hallville, was robbed of nearly $10,000 in $20 gold bills. He was an old man of 84 and kept his money in a trunk. The robbery occurred two weeks ago and there is no clue.

LARGE SALARIES.

The graduates of the Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas, draw the largest salaries of any business college graduates in the State. The reason is plain. This school gives the most thorough, complete, and extensive course of stenography, business training, and telegraphy to be found anywhere. With our advantages of the modern famous Byrnes systems of bookkeeping and shorthand, we reduce the time required for completing a course from two to four months over what is required in other schools.

If you are acquainted with the average business college graduate, you know they go out and work in offices as helpers, or where the work is light, at most any price to get a start, many working for $10 to $15 per week. This is not so with the graduates of the Tyler Commercial College. Our thorough practical courses give the student the training and experience that enables him to go into and hold the better class of positions vacated by experienced help, and thereby draw a good salary from the very first. The advanced salary that our students draw after the salaries received by graduates of other schools would make it cheaper for the student to attend our school and pay the full rate of tuition than to attend another school with tuition free.

We mention the salaries of a few of our students who were but a few months out without our course of practical training and were not able to earn $25 per month: A young lady who worked in her brother's store at $8 per week, finished a course with us in ten weeks time, and is now drawing $35 per month. Another young lady who was not earning anything and could not pay her tuition was placed in school by some friends of her father. She is now drawing $1200 per year. Another young lady who was earning a cent, finished our course, and is drawing a regular salary of $125 per month. A young man who was working on a farm as a day laborer, spent three months in our school and his first four months' wages averaged him $1.75 per month. He is now earning from $2500 to $3000 per year. Another young man who was working at a saw mill at $1.50 per day, took our combined course of bookkeeping and shorthand and is now manager of an extensive business at a salary of $2500 per year. We could give hundreds of similar cases from those who have enrolled with us during the past two years. No other school in America can show such salaries from students just from school. It is our superior practical training that enables our students to draw these excellent salaries. It is a positive fact that we cannot supply the demand for our graduates of bookkeeping and shorthand. Write for and read our $100 guaranty on page two of our catalog. No other school will back their advertising with such a guaranty. If you can't enroll with us now, write us why. Our advice has helped thousands to accomplish their aims. Write us a confidential letter at once. Yours for a practical education: Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Tex.

A Pleasant Affair.

On Thursday, the 29th, at 8:30

quite a crowd of young people were wending their way to the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs.

Edd Dorgan, four miles west of Laesater, where they were royally entertained by music and waltzing, music furnished by Messrs. Ken organ. Then the hour of 10 came and the merry crowd was ushered into the dining room where refreshments were served of ice cream and cake. After returning to the parlor the crowd was entertained by music furnished by Miss

Burnice Clark on organ, which was very much enjoyed. The hour of 12 came when all left, thanking the host and hostess for the pleasure of the evening as one long to be remembered, and with hopes of another grand occasion like that to come in the near future. We
